

HCRP Privacy Policy

Purpose

This notice describes the privacy policy of this agency. The policy may be amended at any time. We may use or disclose your information to provide you services and to comply with legal and other obligations. We assume that, by requesting services from our agency, you agree to allow us to collect information to use and disclose it as described in this notice and as otherwise required by law.

The Homeless Management Information System (HMIS) was developed to meet a data collection requirement made by the US Congress and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Congress passed this requirement in order to get a more accurate count of individuals who are homeless and identify the need for and use different services by those individuals and families. We are collecting statistical information on those who use our services and report this information to a central data collection system.

All agencies using HMIS share their data with other participating agencies, with the exception of Blind Service Providers. These blind agencies serve specific protected client populations, such as domestic abuse, sexual abuse, HIV/AIDS, alcohol and/or substance abuse and mental health and do not share client information.

Generally, all personal information we maintain is covered by this policy. Generally, your personal information will only be used by this agency and other agencies to which you are referred for services.

Information shared with other HMIS agencies helps us to better serve our clients, to coordinate client services and to better understand the number of individuals who need services from more than one agency. This may help meet your needs of others in our community by allowing us to develop new and more efficient programs. Sharing information can also help us make referrals more easily and may reduce the amount of paperwork.

Maintaining the privacy and safety of those using our services is very important to us. Information gathered about you is personal and private. We collect information only when appropriate to provide services, manage our organization or as required by law.

Confidentially Rights

This agency has a confidentiality policy that has been approved by its Board of Directors. This policy follows all HUD confidentiality regulations that are applicable to this agency, including those programs that receive HUD funding for homeless services.

This agency will use and disclose personal information from HMIS only in the following circumstances:

- To provide or coordinate services to an individual
- For functions related to payment or reimbursement for services
- To carry out administrative functions including but not limited to legal, audit, personnel, planning, oversight or management functions
- Databases use for research, where all identifying information has been removed
- Where a disclosure is required by law and disclosure complies with and is limited to the requirements of the law. Instances where this might occur are during a medical emergency, to report a crime against staff of the agency or crime on agency premises or to avert a serious threat to health or safety, including a person's attempt to harm him or her self

- To comply with government reporting obligations
- In connection with a court order, warrant, subpoena or other court where disclosure is required.

Your Information Rights

As a client receiving services at this agency, you have the following rights:

- Access to your record. You have the right to review your HMIS record. At your request, we will assist in viewing the record within five working days
- Correction of your record. You have the right to request to have your record corrected so that information is up to date and accurate to ensure fairness in its use.
- Refusal. Our ability to assist you depends on having certain personal identifying information. If you choose to not share the information we request, we reserve the right to decline to provide you with services as doing so could jeopardize our status as a service provider
- Agency's Right to refuse inspection of an Individual Record. Our agency may deny you the right to inspect to copy your personal information for the following reasons:
 - Information is compiled in reasonable anticipation of litigation or comparable proceedings
 - Information about another individual other than agency staff will be disclosed
 - Information was obtained under a promise of confidentiality other than a promise from this provider and disclosure would reveal the source of the information ; or
 - Information, the disclosure of which would be reasonably likely to endanger the life or physical safety of any individual
- Harassment. The agency reserves the right to reject repeated or harassing requests for access or correction. However, if the agency denies your request for access or correction, you will be provided written documentation regarding your request and the reason for the denial. A copy of that documentation will also be included in your client record.
- Grievance. You have the right to be heard if you feel that your confidentiality rights have been violated. If you have been denied access to your personal records or if you have been put at personal risk or harmed. Our agency has established a grievance process for you to use in such a circumstance.

How your Information will be Kept Secure

Protecting the safety and privacy of individuals receiving service and the confidentiality of their records is important to the agency. Through training, policies, procedures and software, we have taken the following steps to make sure your information is kept safe and secure.

- The computer program we use has the highest degree of security protection available
- Only trained and authorized individuals enter or view your personal information
- Your name and other identifying information will not be contained in HMIS reports that may be issued to local, state or national agencies
- Employees receive training in privacy protection and agree to follow strict confidentiality standards before using the system.
- The server/database only allows individuals access to the information. Only those who should see the information will be allowed to see the information.

- The server/database exists behind a firewall- a device meant to keep hackers/crackers/virus etc. away from the server
- The main database will be kept physically secure, meaning only authorized personnel will have access to the server/database.

Benefits of HMIS and Agency Information Sharing

Information you provide can play an important role in our ability and the ability of other agencies to continue to provide services that you and others in the community are requesting.

Allowing us to share your name results in a more accurate count of individuals and the services they use. Obtaining an accurate count is important because it can help us and other agencies:

- Better demonstrate the need for services and the specific types of assistance needed in our area
- Obtain more money and resources to provide services
- Plan and deliver quality services to you and your family
- Assist the agency to improve its work with families and individuals who are homeless
- Keep required statistics for state and federal funders

Compliance with other Laws

This agency complies with all other federal, state and local laws regarding privacy rights.

Privacy Notice Amendments

The policies covered under this Privacy Notice may be amended over time and those amendments may affect information obtained by the agency before the date of the change. All amendments to the Privacy Notice must be consistent with the requirements of the Federal Standards that protect the privacy of consumers and guide HMIS implementation and operation.
